Policy Statement

We aim to ensure continuity of education and care during transitions and routines, so that each child has the opportunity to feel safe, secure and supported and can engage in rich learning and development experiences.

Background

The Education and Care Services National Regulations require the approved provider to have policies in place in regard to the continuity of educators at a service. Our service aims to provide high quality education for all children at our service, where the continuity of staff is seen as essential to children's learning.

NQS

QA4	4.1.2	Continuity of staff - Every effort is made for children to experience continuity of educators at the service.
QA6	6.2.1	Transitions - Continuity of learning and transitions for each child are supported by sharing information and clarifying responsibilities.

Implementation

To support effective continuity of education and care, the Nominated Supervisor will:

- ensure casual or relief educators, volunteers and work experience students complete an induction process similar to that for permanent staff (see Educator and Management Policy) so they can become familiar with the service environment, staff and needs of children.
- receive copies or access to service policies and procedures, relevant legislation, Staff Handbook, Code of Conduct, Service philosophy and their position description.
- draw on the same casual staff and volunteers, and on the same day each week where possible, so they can develop positive and meaningful relationships with the children and their families.
- implement rosters and staffing arrangements which provide children and families with familiar educators with whom they can develop supportive and trusting relationships during their time at the Service.
- inform families and children of any changes to staffing before they occur where possible. Notification may be via the Service newsletter, email, note or on the Service noticeboard.
- encourage casual educators, volunteers and work experience students, as well as permanent staff, to display a photo of themselves with an introductory paragraph to help children and their families identify and get to know them.
- assist educators to develop and implement plans which support children in the transition to school. These plans may include visits to the reception classes, appropriate documentation detailing each child's strengths and needs, liaising with primary school staff about specialist support services for children with additional needs and processes to ensure each child will feel safe and secure during the transition.
- regularly remind educators about the importance of maintaining continuity of education and care practices between settings, for example between the home and service setting.
- ensure where possible that routines and transitions have the flexibility to accommodate each child's needs.

Educators will:

- communicate with each other during the day about the children's experiences to help provide continuity of education and care. This may be verbal or through the use of a diary that will include information such as the attendance or non-attendance of children at the service.
- supervise children when transitioning to and from the service (such as on excursions and arriving and leaving) and within the service.
- provide responsive, one-on-one support to children who return to the service after an absence.
- support children during transitions between home and preschool settings through open, meaningful interactions and communication, comfort and positive behaviour guidance.
- tell children what is happening next and when.

- allow children to use familiar and favourite items if appropriate.
- meet each child's individual needs where possible during transitions and routines.
- encourage families to share information about their child's strengths, interests and needs through direct conversations daily on arrival and departure and written requests (such as parent surveys).
